Assessment and Target Considerations for the Older Learner

The purpose of this ADL document is to provide...

- Age appropriate assessment items to be considered for older learners.
- > Suggestions for targets for older learners, especially those with transition IEP goals and or who are currently holding a job.
- Additional space to record targets for job skill's targets after a job inventory has been conducted.
- > Additional space to record targets for Community Based Instruction (CBI) for future or current community activities.
- Age appropriate mand target considerations for the older learners (found in the leisure section). Consider the current attributes of the older learner's reinforcers and determine if you can begin to transition toward more age appropriate reinforcers. Age appropriate reinforcers provide more opportunities to for the learner to engage with same age peers and to participate in same age activities. These are cornerstones for building social relationships for the older learner.

Some items were excluded from the list due to the sensitive nature of the target (i.e. Hygiene category). When in doubt, always determine if a target is appropriate for being taught at school verses at home. Communicate with the parents and the IEP team to determine the unique needs of the student, consider how the skill is taught to typical peers, and when the skill can be appropriately taught. Careful planning can promote richer experiences and more productive outcomes for your student.

How to use this guide...

- 1. Sections are grouped by theme. Items are alphabetized within grouped categorizes within each theme.
- 2. Review the grouped categories within each theme and assess the appropriate skills based on the unique needs of your student.
- 3. Record the date under any item in the correlating operant that was assessed as mastered.
- 4. Determine from items assessed as NOT mastered which will become future targets and prioritize those targets as to which to teach first.

 Remember to used mastered tacts of features and actions to teach FFCs.
- 5. You can use this document to record mastered skill or create specific skills tracking sheets. Do what is most efficient for programming.
- 6. Correlate graphs with your targets as applicable.
